From the desk of Dr. John W. Cataldo, Academic Dean:

The Centennial issue of the Massachusetts College of Art catalogue for the academic years 1973-1975 has elicited favorable comment on its recent distribution to faculty members. Despite increased printing costs, it was deemed advisable to invest extraordinary graphic effort and monetary expense in designing and producing a catalogue that would commemorate the college's one hundred years' involvement with the creative arts. The cover, designed by M.C.A. alumna Felice Regan, was silkscreened by the Graphic Workshop under the direction of Robert Moore. Since only three thousand copies were printed, distribution will be carefully limited. Any errors that escaped rigorous proofreading should be called to the attention of my office.

A note from Dean of Administration, Sydney S. Kaplan:

College Mail: College postage cannot be affixed to personal mail. It has been observed that some personal mail has been forwarded to the mail room to have college postage expended; this practice must terminate since it would be illegal. Thank you for your cooperation.

In the news:

A poem, "Minoan Mystery", by Lila Chalpin is featured in the January, 1974 issue of Popular Archaeology. The poem is based on the "digs" at Crete and the deciphering of Linear Band A.

Calvin Burnett was recently appointed by Mayor Mann of Newton to that city's Advisory Board of the Cultural Commission. He also is currently showing drawings in the "Roxbury" exhibition at the National Center of Afro-American Artists and had work at the Cambridge Public Library during the "Heritage of a City Bicentennial Prelude" there.
